

At that moment, the man went into the shop and came out with a small hot bowl of rice. "There you are, eat it first!" the man gave the bowl to Joe and said.

Joe didn't refuse as he was really hungry to death. So, he quickly finished his "special meal" and returned the bowl to the man. When he was eating, he found that the man did not only give him plain rice – some minced pork and a stewed egg was hidden at the bottom of the bowl. He was eating with tears.

The next day, Joe went back to the shop again as he would like to express his apology and gratitude to the man. However, the shop was closed. A passer-by told Joe that the shop had been forced to shut down by the government.

Another twenty years passed. Joe was not a poor college student anymore. He was now a successful businessman working in a bank but he kept helping people in need by participating in voluntary work at weekends. He would never forget the experience of his starving old days. He would always remember that bowl of rice which came in time to save him.

This week, Joe went to visit the homeless elderly living in the street. When he distributed the food and necessities to the poor people, he saw a man shivering in cold in the corner. He came near and said, "Here you are!"

The man looked at Joe and Joe was surprised for a second. He recognized the tattoo on the man's neck. "Are you the shop owner of that shop" Joe pointed to the opposite side of the street. "I want to thank you for helping me twenty years ago but I couldn't find you."

The man looked at Joe all over. He couldn't believe the young man in front of him was the one whom he had helped. He was glad not because Joe was so successful and rich but his good heart of helping people in need.

"It's all about you. Thank you for the bowl of rice with love and care!" Joe hugged the old man.

Joe went to visit the old man a week later. But he could not find the old man anymore.

The Gourmets

Nowadays, Korean food is popular all over the world. Therefore, we go to different Korean restaurants to try some Korean food that are very common in Korea. We recommend the food that we have tried and introduce some of our favourites.

Appetisers

1. Tteokbokki

Spicy level: ||||

Comment: Although it is super spicy, the rice dumpling is delicious and we think that some chilli lovers will like it.

2. Kimchi

There are different kinds of Kimchi, like cabbage, radish, cucumber, etc. We only tried the one made with radish.

Spicy level: ||

Comment: It is not really spicy so we think people who don't like eating very spicy food can also handle it.

Main Dishes

1. Sweet Meat Noodles

Spicy level: *

Comment: Even though the dish is not spicy and it seems very simple, it is pleasant and we heard that it's very popular in Northern China.

2. Forces Pot

Spicy level: |||

Comment: Forces Pot is quite big and there are many meat products like sausages, luncheon meat, etc. If you have a gathering with your friends and family, you can try this pot. It is suitable for 3-6 persons.

Desserts

1. Snow Ice

The most popular Korean dessert in Hong Kong at present is snow ice. It seems like simple ice but it is much softer and packed with flavours.

Others

1. Korean Strawberries

In Korea, strawberries are famous for their huge size and sweetness. Although the Korean strawberries in Hong Kong are normally not quite big, they are very sweet. We can see that there are many people selling Korean strawberries on the street.

2. Rainbow Cake

Rainbow cake is becoming popular in Hong Kong. However, it has been very popular in Korea. It is famous because of its beautiful rainbow! You may think that the cake is simple because of its white appearance. However, when you cut into the cake — a colourful rainbow appears! And each colour has its own flavour as well.

Districts where we can taste Korean food in Hong Kong:

1. Tsim Sha Tsui Kimberley Street (Also known as Korea Street because there are many native Korean restaurants)
2. Causeway Bay

Most of you must have been to some Korean restaurants in Hong Kong. Our gourmets went to a Korean restaurant in Causeway Bay and they interviewed the Korean owner of the restaurant to talk about their business here in Hong Kong.

Q1: Who is the charter member in this restaurant?

A: Miss Kim.

Q2: When did you decide to pursue a career in the restaurant business? Why?

A: When I was 20 years old. It was because I had worked in a Korean restaurant before.

Q3: Why did you choose to run a Korean restaurant but not a Chinese, Japanese or Thai restaurant?

A: It is because I am Korean so I choose to run a Korean restaurant instead.

Q4: Do you think your Korean food is fusion and modern?

A: Yes, I do.

Q5: Do customers like your food? What kinds of feedback do you get from your customers?

A: Yes, they do. Our customers always said that we provided good service.

Q6: Did you have a bad time when you first started to run this restaurant? Did you want to give up?

A: Of course, I have had this kind of situation but I didn't give up because I know that if I do it well, there will be customers who will appreciate me.

Q7: Do you face any challenges running this restaurant? What are the challenges?

A: Yes, I do. A customer did not like the dishes that I made and he was rude to me.

Q8: Which dishes do your customers like most?

A: The customers like Beef Short Ribs Stew most.

Q9: Do you think you will continue with this business in the future?

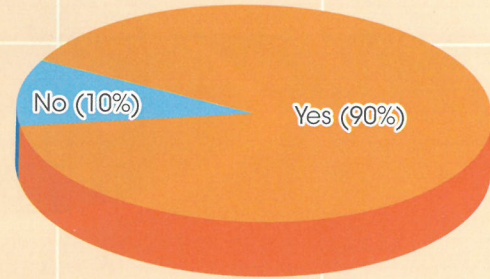

A: Yes, I will.

Survey

Do you like Korean cuisine? How would you answer if you were interviewed about your opinions about Korean cuisine? Here are the results of a survey of Form 3 students' views towards Korean cuisine. See if they are similar to yours.

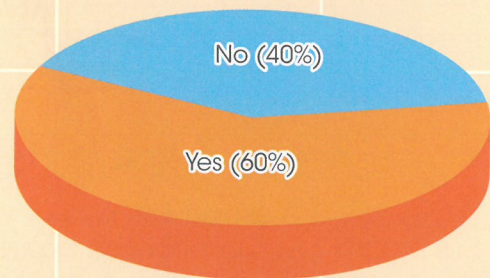

1. Do you like Korean food?

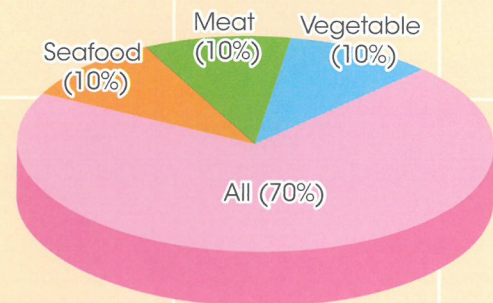

2. Which Korean dishes do you like most? (you may choose more than one)

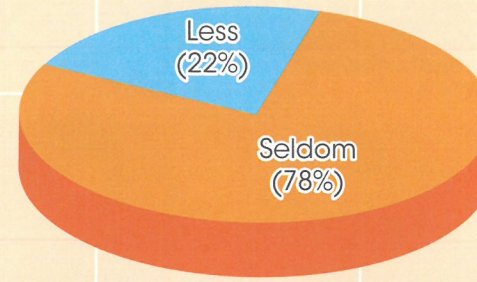

3. Do you like spicy food or not?

4. Which kind of food do you like most?

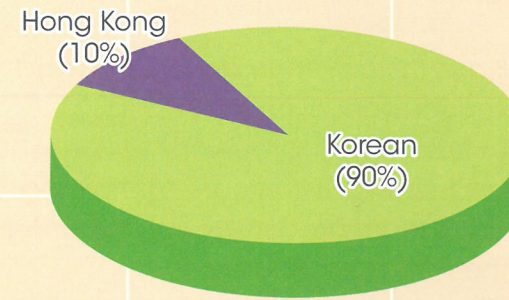

5. How often do you eat Korean food?

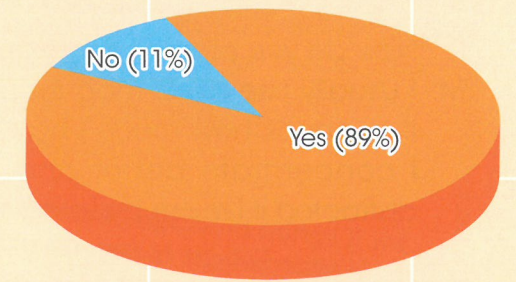

6. Why don't you like Korean food?

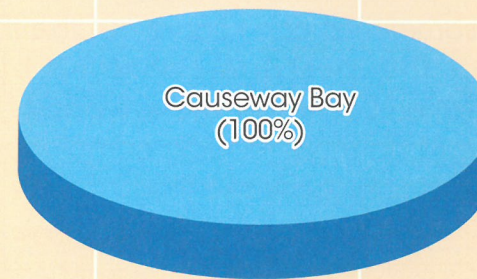

7. Do you like the Korean food made in Hong Kong or the native Korean food?

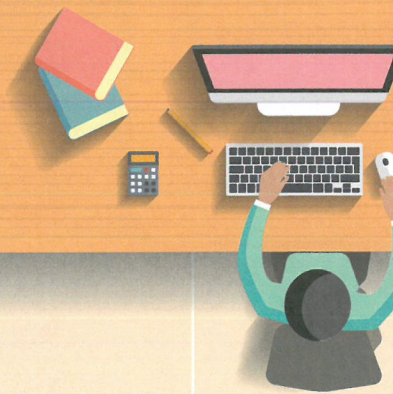

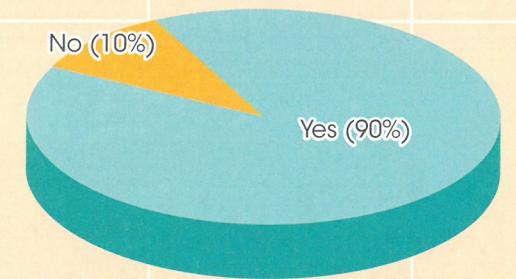

8. Have you ever wanted to go to Korea to taste Korean food?

9. Where do you taste Korean food in Hong Kong?

10. Do you think the price of the Korean food is reasonable?

With Flying Colours

Every student wants brilliant results in examinations. To do well academically, effective studying skills and methods are necessary. We have talked to Michael Hung and Kelvin Ng of 4A who are two outstanding students at LCDMC. They have shared with us some tips on studying.

Michael

Kelvin

M - Michael R - Reporter

K - Kelvin R - Reporter

R: How do you prepare for examinations?

M: I usually use mind map for revision. I use it to check how much I have learnt. Also I concentrate better and do not get distracted if I revise by using a mind map.

R: How can you handle so many subjects?

M: I use different study methods for different subjects. For example, when I study science subjects, I tend to think more. I think quite a lot. Thinking helps me truly understand the topic taught in class.

R: What is the most important thing in studying?

M: I think it is interest. If you are interested in a subject, you will do well.

R: How much time do you spend on school work every day?

K: I usually do homework for one hour and spend two hours on revising the day's learning as well as preparing for the next day's lessons.

R: Which subject is the most difficult to you? What do you do to improve?

K: I think it's Chinese Language. I sometimes can't figure out the theme or the message conveyed by the writer. So, I read more types of texts and do more reading comprehension exercises in my free time.

R: How do you study?

K: I usually study by memorization. I memorize important concepts and ideas. I also do practice papers and exercises.

Different people have different study methods. We hope Michael and Kelvin's sharing can give you some hints on studying well. Let's work hard!

Teachers as Students

We have interviewed Ms. Alice Chan, Ms. Tracy Lau and Ms. Celine Chan about how they studied when they were a student.

Ms. Alice Chan is our English teacher.

How did you study when you were a student?

When I was in school, I always set a learning goal and had a schedule to plan my studies. I would plan ahead and decide which subject would be studied first and managed the time. I also studied and discussed with my peers.

Why did you discuss with your peers?

We could support and learn from each other. Our knowledge was therefore enriched.

How can we study effectively?

I think note-taking is very important because it can help us to organize what we have learnt. It can also enhance our understanding of the subjects.

Ms. Tracy Lau teaches us Mathematics.

What did you do to improve your performance in Mathematics when you were a student?

I did many exercises to reach a higher level. I also memorized the formula such as the volume and the area of the solid, Pythagorean theorem, etc.

What are the important things if we want to do well in Mathematics?

Always listen to the teachers and pay attention in class. Doing exercises is also helpful because it can familiarize us with the different question types.

Ms. Celine Chan is our History and Liberal Studies teacher.

How did you study when you were a student?

When I was a student, I never had to burn the midnight oil. I would go over everything before going to bed and got up one hour earlier to go through all the materials again.

What should we do to have better academic performance?

Youngsters should sleep earlier because they will have a good memory in the morning. In my opinion, effective note-taking skills are also important for studying.

Believe It or Not? Strange but True Stories

Have you experienced any "strange but true" events? Do you like reading mysteries or ghost stories? If so, you may be interested in the following sharing from our teachers.

Warning:
The following articles may contain horror materials that may not be appropriate for some students and teachers who are scared of the supernatural.

Knock...knock... Who's there? (by Mr. Lum)

I went on an exchange tour on the mainland with my students a decade ago. After we arrived in Guangzhou and stayed in a hotel, some students came to my room. They said they heard some strange noise inside the toilet, but there was nobody inside. They dared not stay in the room, and came for help. I decided to investigate their claim. When I first entered their room, I was shocked to notice that the lights were all on but they hadn't inserted the room key for the power! I really didn't want to stay any longer and decided to leave. Worse still, when I was about to close the door, I suddenly heard some strange noise from the toilet. Who's there? Without a thought, I immediately arranged another room for my students and we will never stay at that hotel again.

The smiling clown (by Mr Kwan)

The following story is just a rumor that I overheard from other students. There was once a picture hanging on the wall along the 7/F corridor in our school. It was a painting of a clown - a smiling clown, with some quotes on it. One day, a couple of students stayed after school late. It was getting dark. When they were walking near the picture, one of them was shocked to see that the clown in the picture disappeared. He took a closer look at the picture, he saw a strange creepy face of another person! The next day, it was back to normal again... That picture is no longer hanging there. No one knows what really happened to that picture.

Who's in the lift? (by Ms. Wong)

This is my own experience at school. One day after finishing the last two lessons, I stayed for a while at school before leaving. At about six, it was getting dark and it was time to leave. It seemed that I was nearly the only teacher left at school. I took the lift to leave by the back door. I pressed the lift button and it went up to the 7/F from the ground floor without stopping. However, when I went into the lift, with nobody else there, I was surprised to see that the lift buttons were all pressed! "Who was there? Who did that?" I was frightened. What was even more surprising was that, after the lift moved up to the 8/F and the door opened, the lift buttons were all off at the same time! And it moved back to the G/F ..... I left without having a second thought of this event. Was that just a dream?

The creepy freaky empty room (by Ms. Lee)

When I was in an orientation camp of university years ago, I had an "unusual" experience.

As only students joined the camp, we were all arranged to study in the student hostel. The family houses were left empty. After dinner, all of us went to the community hall to play group games. After a while, my friend and I went to the toilet. On our way, we had a sudden thought, "Let's go and check out the family houses there! Was the decoration different from ours?"

Without a doubt, we were standing right next to one of the family houses. Everything was fine. Suddenly, I saw part of the ripple fold curtain was flattened. It seemed that someone or something was lying on it but no one should be inside. I was so shocked and terrified. After a few seconds, when I turned back and looked at it again, the curtain was back to normal. Whatever "that thing" was, we had to leave fast. We dashed back to the community hall immediately.

IDEA

Tips to avoid encountering with supernatural things

Here are some tips for you to avoid meeting supernatural or horrible things: Remember, they are just for your reference - don't take it seriously!

1

1. Do not investigate the source of any weird noise you have just heard.

If you hear something freaky, don't go checking it out in details. Stay away from it. It's probably something "unnatural". Let it be.

2

2. Always buy new furniture

We are not sure if second-hand furniture you buy is haunted or not. If it is haunted, weird things will start to happen. For your own safety, stay away from yard sales and vintage shops.

3

3. Do not keep too many dolls at home.

Believe it or not, dolls usually turn out to be evil. Get rid of them now. Do not keep too many old dolls at home as they are.....too "dirty".

4

4. Do not fall down when someone is chasing you.

Normal people won't fall down when they are running. No matter who is chasing you, keep running! By the way, do not run upstairs when someone is chasing you, it may increase the chance of tripping over.

5

5. Keep changing television channels.

If you suddenly see someone about to climb out from your television, you are so "LUCKY". What you can do is to keep changing the channels with the remote control. Try it out tonight. Be careful of being scolded by your family members.

6

6. Do not answer anonymous phone calls.

It's 2016! No one makes phone calls anymore. Everyone sends text messages instead. If an anonymous caller is calling you, chances are - they are likely to be either a real ghost or someone with bad intentions. Don't try to answer the call!

Let's Jazz

Playing the saxophone gives people the impression of being cool and stylish. How much do you know about this jazz instrument?

A Brief History of Saxophone

1841 - Saxophone was invented by Antoine-Joseph Adolphe Sax in Belgium.

1846 - Adolphe Sax obtained patent for his saxophones.

1847 - The first saxophone school was set up in Paris.

1894 - Adolphe Sax died. His son took over the business.

1914 - The saxophone entered the world of jazz bands.

An interview with Mr. Ocean Yip, the saxophone teacher

Recently our school has set up a saxophone band. We have interviewed the instructor, Mr. Ocean Yip, about his music career and experience as a saxophone player.

Q: Mr. Yip, how long have you been playing the saxophone?

A: I have been playing this musical instrument since 2005, so it's about eleven years. I picked up the saxophone when I was in Form 1.

Q: Why did you start playing the saxophone?

A: Actually I played the piano first when I was in Primary 3. However, when I was in Primary 5, I lost interest in playing it. When I was in secondary school, my school had a school band and I was interested in joining. I attended an audition and they accepted me. The teacher arranged for me to play the saxophone. I didn't know much about it at that time but I played it until today.

Q: What keeps you playing the saxophone?

A: First I love music very much. Also, I could meet new friends in the school band. As my music teacher told me, a musical instrument is not just a musical instrument, it is a tool to enable you to communicate with others, prove yourself and increase knowledge. For example, I can join some musical events in other countries to experience different things. It's a lot of fun and learning.

Q: Nowadays, there are so many jobs to choose. Why do you choose to be a music instructor?

A: My daily life is around music. I play music most of the time. Also, music was my major subject when I was in university. In Hong Kong, unless you are a member of a professional orchestra like the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra or the Hong Kong Sinfonietta, you can't earn a living by performing music. On top of this, there is no saxophone in the orchestra and only very few pieces need a saxophone. So I give saxophone lessons to support myself. Of course, I want to share my skills and knowledge my teacher has taught me with other people.

Q: What can you gain from playing the saxophone?

A: Playing the musical instrument has trained up my patience as I can't give up easily in practicing. I also need to cooperate with people. I get happiness in the process too.

Q: Have you encountered any difficulties in learning the saxophone?

A: Learning the musical instrument isn't cheap. Fortunately, my school had many resources in music. I only needed to pay $350 a month for one weekly lesson and three weekly band rehearsals. My school also lent me the instrument. Time was indeed another difficulty. When I was a student, I needed to study and play music. I couldn't say my music learning affected my studies. I think there were positive and negative effects. In the process, I learned how to solve problems. I even used the problem solving skills in my studies.

Q: Do you enjoy your job?

A: Yes I do. Teaching has given me great satisfaction. Besides teaching, I also take up freelance performances in different places and countries. For example, I perform in wedding ceremonies. I am happy that I can make the event more joyful. My music career is never boring. I'm not the type of person who wants to work in an office and do routine things.

Q: Which musician do you like most?

A: I like Nobuya Sugawa who is a Japanese saxophone performer. He is both a classical and pop saxophone performer. He is a genius and I love listening to his CDs.

Q: To compare with other schools, do you see any difference between LCD students and students of other schools?

A: Students here love talking with me and this may not happen in other schools. I enjoy teaching here.

Let's hear what the saxophonists of LCD say.

Why do you pick up the saxophone?

It's fun and cool.

I can play beautiful music with it.

I like the sound of the instrument.

I feel relaxed when I play it.

Do you enjoy the saxophone lessons?

The lessons enrich my knowledge of music.

Yes, I feel happy and successful.

Have you encountered any difficulties in learning?

I may forget how to press the keys.

At first, my lips were painful and breaths were difficult.

"Hands on Stage" Puppetry Competition

Our school Puppet Team tried their hand at the pilot "Hands on Stage" Puppetry Competition held on 5 May 2015. Playful puppet shows as well as those with more serious messages made the audience laugh and listen. The competition was organized by the NET Section. The nine teams were made up of 4 - 5 students who performed an original script of 5 - 7 minutes, which was based on one given line of dialogue. With the hard work and creativity of our team, our school came first in the competition. Congratulations!

Winners:

- 5A Timmy Wong
- 5A Zoe Lau
- 5A Thomas Chan
- 5A Gary Keung
- 5B Vieri Ngan
- 5A Irene Lee (puppet designer)

Disappearing Ice Age

Puppet characters

- P1: Penguin A
- P2: Penguin B
- PB: Polar bear
- H1: Human A
- H2: Human B

Scene 1

- P1: The weather is so hot! I'm gonna die!
- P2: (Ganders around) No, look! Over there! It's a piece of ice.... Oh it's gone now,.....never mind.
- P1: What are we gonna do?! We're gonna die!
- P2: Hm... Ah-ha! I've heard that a place called North Pole. It's cool and full of refreshing ice!
- P1: North Pole? Where is it? I've never heard of that.
- P2: Go any direction, which way do you like?
- P1: It's not the time to goof around! Hey, be serious!
- P2: I'm serious, though. We're in the South Pole, any direction is north! Let's go north!
- P1+P2: Let's go!

Scene 2

- P1: I haven't seen such big size of ice since I was born! It's almost as large as my wing!
- P2: Cool! Let's bring it back to our land. (A polar bear interferes while the penguins are picking up the ice block)
- PB: Stop right there, what do you think you're doing! (P1 gasps)
- P2: Oh I'm sorry sir, we're just bringing this piece of ice with us.
- PB: That piece of ice is the largest piece of ice we got here, it's our landmark! Don't touch it!
- P1: So what can we do now? (disappointed) We can't survive without it.
- P2: Don't worry, we're on a diplomatic mission. Now, polar bear, let us parley. (discuss)
- PB: I see, so your kind is experiencing the same situation we're in.
- P2: This can't go on much longer, I've heard that humans are causing this disaster, maybe they have the power to stop this!
- PB: Sounds like we're going to find humans, right then, lets go!
- P1+P2+PB: (look around) There they are! Humans! (pointing the right hand side)

Scene 3

- H1: Oh look, some stupid penguins are there.
- H2: What are they doing around here?
- P2: Excuse me, both penguins & polar bears are facing a disaster. We need your help! Please help us!
- P1+P2+PB: Please .....
- H2: It's none of my business. Why should I help you, idiot?
- H1: Let's feed them. Give them some fish and ask them to leave.
- P1: We are not looking for food. We want help!!!!!!!!!!!!
- H2: So what do YOU, YOU and YOU want? Hah?
- PB: Ice!... We just want some ICE!
- H1: What?! Haha...that's silly! Tell them to make some by themselves.
- PB: We're not playing around. We're in grave danger!
- P1: Our extinction is on the edge!
- P2: Yes, we're desperate of getting ice!
Our kind is just barely surviving right now, if this keeps on... I'm not sure what will happen.
- P1: We'll ALL die! We'll be cooked by then!
- PB: Being cooked? Oh no!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
- P1+P2+PB: (worrying) What are we going to do? X 3
- H2: Oh, shut up! Just take the fish and leave!
- H1: Animals these days, they'll do anything for food...
- P2: I repeat, we are NOT looking for food.
We're looking for ICE!
- P1: Just look around you, there's barely any glaciers here!
- PB: I remember my grandpa once told me that this place was full of ice, back then, everything was cool and refreshing! Everything was great! Our land was huge!
- P1: We're affected too! We need to hide under caves or under water because it's too hot for us!
- P2: So, do you understand now? Please help us!
(silent for a moment)
- H2: I've had enough! Let's leave here before I die from boredom.
- H1: We're losing daylight here!
- H2: Goodbye, stupid animals! (walking off stage)
- P1+P2: Don't leave us alone!
We're going to die! (crying)

Scene 4 – (Many years later)

H1: It's 42 °c now. We're melting. Our countries need your help.

We need ice, your majesty. Please save us!

H2: I'm so sorry but I'm afraid we are in the same situation.

I'm melting. I need some ice, too!

H1+H2: (looking at each other) What? Ice? The penguins!!

H2: They asked me for ice many years ago, remember?

H1: We didn't listen to them! We didn't help them at last!

H2: Oh! We should help them.

We shouldn't have done it! **

H1+H2: Who can help us now!?!? Help!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

(melting & dying) (off stage)

A bowl of LOVE

Many stories have been told about changing other people's lives by helping them in small ways. Sometimes, if you help people in need, they may return the favour by offering help. By sharing love and good deeds of people, we can spread the message that we can change the world by lending a hand to the needy.

Twenty years ago, a poor college student from Taiwan, Joe, went to a restaurant and begged for some unwanted food. He was nearly starved to death. All he needed was just something - anything would do - to maintain his life. But he spent his money on study in Hong Kong, so he only got few dollars left in his pocket.

"Sorry, sir. Could you please give me just a bowl of rice? I'm starving." Joe begged. "Just a bowl of rice will do, please." Joe continued.

"Go away! That's rude! How much have you got?" the restaurant manager asked.

Joe could only move to another shop. He lowered his head and tried again. He was desperate and sat down in front of a shop. It was already midnight. The gate of the shop was half-closed.

A middle-aged man came out from the half-closed gate of the shop. He was not tall, wearing a dirty vest and shorts with a tattoo on his neck. "Hey, young man," the man said in a low but warm voice.

"Why are you sitting here? Are you hungry?" the man asked.

Joe nodded his head but he dared not to ask for anything at that time.
